

TRANSFORMATION OF AUSTRALIA FROM DEFENSE BASE TO FORMIDABLY-ARMED BASTION OF ATTACK IS ANNOUNCED

Prime Minister Curtin and Gen. Douglas MacArthur Conclude Conferences — Developments Aimed at "Discomfiture" of Japanese Freely Predicted—Lavish Tribute Paid to MacArthur by Curtin.

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUAR-TERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 10.— (INS)—Transformation of Australia from a defense base into a formidably armed bastion of attack against Japan was announced by Australian Prime Minister John Curtin today in concluding a series of conferences with Gen. Douglas Mac-Arthur.

Developments aimed at "discomfiture" of the Japanese were freely predicted, and Curtin expressed firm belief that Japan at the present time—and presumably in the future—would be unable to invade Australia.

"The conclusions of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill for prosecution of the war in the Pacific with the same vigor as the war in Europe," Curtin said, "have ominous portents for the discomfiture of the Japanese."

The Prime Minister paid lavish tribute to Gen. MacArthur for his part in building up the strength of Australia.

Dynamite River Bed
For Oil Pipe Trench

NEW HOPE, June 10.—Between seven and eight tons of dynamite were used Tuesday afternoon in the 51 holes drilled in the Deleware River bed a short distance above this city, for the permanent oil pipe trench which will carry the precious fuel and gasoline from the Texas oil fields to Bayway.
The blast cut a trench starting about 50 feet from the Pennsylvania shore outward toward the New Jersey side of Delaware River for at least another 50 feet, blowing out rock and red shale which formed small islands which stand about three feet above the water level.

Chief Tierney, supervisor in charge of the Delaware River crossing, and Supervisor Reynolds, of Marietta, Pa., who has charge of the Susquehanna River crossing, both witnessed the feat, and both claim the "shot" a success.

The barges which have been used for supporting well-drilling machinery to bore the 51 holes, were permitted to drift down the stream to a safe distance for the witnessing of the affair by officials and photographing the result by newspaper cameramen and movie reel photographers. State Police were on duty to keep away the curious.

Thus "Big Inch" formally started on its journey to close the gap between Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Similar blasts will be made at regular intervals until the distance of 700 feet across the river is finally bridged for the laying of the pipe.

Granzow Dance Recital
To Start at 8, Friday

Fifty-five scintillating numbers will make up the program for the eighth annual recital to be presented by the pupils of the Granzow Dancing Academy tomorrow evening in the Grand Theatre.

Sara C. Granzow, who directs the students, announces that the doors will open at 7.45, and the program will get under way promptly at eight o'clock due to transportation difficulties. The opening time is advanced one-half hour from previous years.

An orchestra will provide musical accompaniment, and those who have glimpsed the costumes tell of gorgeous apparel.

A few of the titles of the 55 numbers make for anticipation of a gala show: "Frozen Assets," "Swing High—Swing Low," "In a Garden of Flowers," "Shake Yo' Feet," "In Step With the U. S. A.," presenting the army, navy and marine corps;
"Couture," "WAACS," "I Dance With My Fan," "Stardom Special,"
"The Samba," "Bristol Shipmates," and countless others.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Directed by their supervisor, Thomas E. Johnston, the members of the Mountain Run Chapter, Future Farmers of America, composed of Buckingham High School boys, have been engaged in several productive group activities, including a reforestation project at Deer Park and vegetable plant growing.

The members of the chapter recently completed the project at Deer Park. This included the planting of 1000 red pine seedlings and 1000 red oak seedlings, all of which were furnished by the State Department of Forests and Waters.

The purpose of the Deer Park project was soil conservation, but eventually these seedlings will develop into trees to be used for lumber. According to Mr. Johnston, the growing conditions for the seedlings have been excellent.

State Police are investigating the theft of an automobile that was found wrecked against a tree along the Lackawanna Trail between Warrington and Neshaminy.

The car, belonging to Lt. William T. Fleming, of the Naval Intelligence Bureau, Harrisburg, was stolen from the Paoli railroad station parking lot early Monday morning, where Mrs. Fleming had parked the car before boarding a train.

Police found a man who saw the car strike the tree. He told police that the driver of the stolen car was about 20, and got a hop back toward Philadelphia, after the wreck and before the police could reach the scene.

The stolen car, a sedan, is a complete wreck.
Much of the time at the monthly meeting of Perkasie Borough Council, was devoted to a discussion relating to the drainage condition in the upper part of the borough, and members of Council were assured steps will be taken to prevent the flooding of that portion of the town.

For the past few years privately owned properties and streets have been badly damaged as the result of water flowing from the tunnel of the Reading Railway Company.
Because of a faulty drainage condition on what is known as Tunnel Farm, north of the borough, the water cannot flow into the Toltick creek, but it has cut a deep channel on the farm, and from there it drops over a high precipice, runs for almost a mile through the tunnel and then finds its outlet in the upper part of the town, where much damage has been done.

In attendance at the meeting this week was a representative of the railroad company, who informed Council that steps will be taken in an attempt to prevent the water from entering the borough.
The plan, he said, calls for the construction of a channel which will divert the water into the Three Mile Run.

Cowboy Drivers

(By "The Stroller")
The cowboys are again loose!
If you don't believe it, watch those auto drivers racing up and down Pond street, Farragut street, Beaver street, Radcliffe street, Otter street, and some of the other thoroughfares of Bristol.

Undoubtedly these drivers are anxious to get home after a hard day's work, but please respect the speed laws of our town!

And then, you know, or have you forgotten, about the 35-mile speed limit?

Miss Haines is Hostess
At The W. C. T. U. Picnic

Every summer the Women's Christian Temperance Union enjoys a picnic meeting at the Keene Home with Miss Mary J. Haines as hostess. The annual affair on Tuesday afternoon and evening was very enjoyable, with the county president, Mrs. Elsie Nixon, Newtown; the county treasurer, Mrs. Roscoe L. Horner, Langhorne, and Miss Marian Longshore, Langhorne, in attendance.

Words of inspiration from each of the visitors were conducive to added loyalty and understanding.

The picnic supper which each member provided in the form of a box luncheon was much enjoyed in the spacious dining room of the Colonial house. Group singing was followed by the showing of pictures of wild flowers taken by Dr. Harry Neher at Bowman's Hill, where a wild flower preserve is maintained by the Federated Women's Clubs of Bucks. Mrs. Neher operated the Colorado with towering mountains, snow-topped, with flowers growing at the foot, blue lakes and exqui-sitley blue skies, made an evening long to be remembered.

PETROLEUM'S PART IN WAR EFFORT GIVEN

H. C. Roemer Speaks To Bensalem Rotary Club
Members

RUBBER SITUATION

ANDALUSIA, June 10.—That synthetic rubber industry in the United States will no doubt exceed the automobile industry's needs for rubber prior to the global war, was the thought expressed by H. C.
Roemer, a representative of the Standard Oil Company, when he spoke to Bensalem Rotarians on Tuesday evening.

Presenting the subject, "Bombs for Berlin, Terror in Tokyo, Tires for You," Mr. Roemer gave a most comprehensive and informative talk on the gasoline and rubber situation when introduced to local club members by Dr. Edgar Beckes.

"We should be justly proud to be Americans," said Mr. Roemer at the outset of his talk. He reminded of the comment often made at the close of World War I, that "The Allies floated to victory on oil." "If that was true then, it is more so now," he added as he informed that 80 times more oil was used in the first year of World War II, than in the first year of World War I; and 29 times as much oil per soldier is needed for victory this time than in the last war.

Mr. Roemer stated that the company he represents usually figures that $15 to $20 will be expended for oil for every dollar spent in tires.
"In the early twenties the supply of gasoline seemed relatively limited, but the picture changed when hydrogenation of oil took place." He made mention that the initial patents for this process were controlled by a German firm, adding that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey paid 39 million dollars for the rights in several countries.

Three outstanding contributions to industry were made following obtaining of these basic patent rights by Esso, the Rotarians were informed. The one led to development of 100 octane gasoline, this type of gasoline being used in all United States bombers. "The best of the German gasoline is 91 octane," said Mr. Roemer, who informed that because of the 25 per cent superior advantage thus afforded Allied planes, less gasoline can be carried in favor of heavier armor or heavier bombs; or with full load of gasoline longer "hops" and faster "getaway" can be assured. Another contribution following obtaining of the patent rights was discovery of "Para Flow," which contributed to the Russian advantage when the tide of war turned on that front. "The Germans couldn't use their crank cases because their oil was sold at the temperatures encountered on that far northern front," commented the speaker. The third contribution which followed gaining of the patents was the manufacturing of TNT from petroleum, with three out of five depth charges and

HEARINGS PLANNED
HERE FOR ALLEGED
VIOLATORS

Names of Alleged Violators of Pleasure Driving Ban Turned In

TO NAME A JURY

OPA May Increase Penalty
If Not Deemed Sufficiently Severe

Responsibility for the prosecution of individuals of the area claimed to have violated the pleasure driving ban is placed in the hands of Bristol's local rationing board, the same procedure being followed locally as in the larger cities.

Bristol Board members have already received names of alleged violators in this area from officials of the OPA. A date for hearing in these cases is yet to be set; it possibly being next week. The hearing date will be named by members of the Bristol board.

The alleged violators were apprehended by OPA officials, who in turn notified Bristol board. Notices of hearing dates will be sent to the owners of the cars involved, and a jury composed of local individuals will hear evidence in the cases.

After decisions are reached in the cases the OPA will be notified of such decision. If the OPA decides the penalty is not sufficiently severe, additional penalty can be imposed by the OPA, it is stated.

Women War Workers
Wear Slacks and Turbans

FARRELL, June 10.—(INS)—In trim slacks, and bright turbans, 160 women now operate drill presses, drill rivet holes in tank armor, and operate machines used to flame-soften the edges of armor plate at the new ordnance plant here.

From peacetime pursuits these former housewives, waitresses, and beauticians have turned to producing bullet-proof armor plate for tanks. At the plant, converted from old tin and sheet mills by Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, installation of new equipment is about completed, opening more jobs for women.

Originally all of the women were trained by men, but now these who have proved their proficiency have risen to positions as instructors.
Most of the women are in their early twenties; a few older ones have sons in the armed forces.
They take war work seriously and show a desire to make good in many steel jobs vacated by men going to war.

Other women at the Farrell works operate tractors, speeding material from one production line to another. Some have advanced to the job of completely operating machines used in the preparation of material for the exacting armor plate test requirements.

The Farrell ordnance plant now ships plates to other plants for flattening, but with the installation of two roller level units, it will become a self-contained and independent unit. The plant then can release about 250 railroad cars monthly for other vital war transportation while before they were needed to transport the plates to and from Farrell.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

COURTLAND, Ala., June 10.— Aviation Cadet Charles W. Everett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Everett, of Newportville, Pa., has reported here to the Army Air Forces Basic Flying School for the third stage of training as a cadet pilot.

This air base, only until recently the site of flourishing cotton fields, is alive today with the roar of Uncle Sam's planes flying overhead.

The BT-13 which a cadet learns to handle here is a faster and heavier plane than the one which he flew at Primary School and, therefore, requires a wider knowledge of all aerial sciences.
His varied course of training includes instrument flying, night soloing, and a thorough study and application of aerial navigation.

The Army Air Forces Basic Flying School at Courtland, Alabama, is one of the newest in the Southeast Training Center. Night and day they "Keep 'em Flying" for victory.

COPERNICUS

For nearly four centuries the sun has not been the same to those who looked at it from the world's surface, and all because of the work of a versatile astronomer whose anniversary has just been celebrated. He was Nicholas Copernicus and the anniversary was the 400th of his death which occurred shortly after he had completed his labors establishing his theory of heliocentricity.

Until Copernicus came along it had been largely taken for granted by man that his world was the center of the universe and that around it revolved the stars and planets and even the sun. The theory that the sun and not the earth was upsetting to the world which, as a consequence, was considerably reduced in its importance in the hierarchy of space.

The Polish astronomer, like many of the great men of that age, was famous for more than one accomplishment. In some quarters he is credited with being the real author of Gresham's law, the theory in economics that debased currency tends to drive sound currency out of circulation. He was also a painter, poet, physician, statesman and soldier.

In fact, had Copernicus been alive in 1939 he might have taken an active part in resistance to the Nazis when they invaded Poland, for, in 1520, he became commander in chief of the city of Olstyn when it was besieged by the Prussian Teutonic knights. He will be forever honored for having thrust back the horizon of ignorance.

DEATH TO MOSQUITOES

Some folk on the home front think they have trouble with insects, but in some areas of the globe where American boys are fighting are infinitely worse. Research, results of which can be applied at home after the war, is being stimulated by this fact.

One example is the insect "bomb" which the Department of Agriculture has perfected for the armed forces but which will have many uses in peace time.

A mixture of liquid gas and an insecticide goes into a small steel container. By means of a simple release enough puffs can be put out from this bomb to kill daily for fifty days all the mosquitoes in ten rooms, each ten feet square and ten feet high, agriculture department scientists say.

The puffs resemble smoke and can go anywhere that smoke can go, thus penetrating into tiny nooks that are usually missed by sprays. Moreover, the latest development leaves infinitesimal particles of the poison suspended in the air as an aerosol. This suspension is so fine that it is non-toxic to man and animals and non-inflammable, but highly toxic to insects, the research specialists say.

Letters To Editor

(The opinions expressed in the following communications are not necessarily those of the editor.)

Editor Courier:

Since my profession connects me very intimately with youth, I am no little concerned with the recreational facilities which Bristol offers its youth. Not one properly sponsored facility is available in this industrial town of 14,000 people where in a good many cases both parents work. Latch string children and a rise in the juvenile delinquency rate will result.

Mentioning the fact that not one single playground was available to the youth of Bristol, to several friends recently, I discovered that futile attempts had been made in the past to this end. Why didn't they succeed? Why shouldn't they succeed? Are there not enough interested citizens, organizations, and industries, who are far-sighted enough to see the wisdom in keeping youth off the street? Must we in Bristol continue to breed a youth of corner "crap shooters," vandals whose idea of fun is to break milk bottles on the streets and pavements, young boys whose physical recreation consists of leaning on a pool cue? A good many of our youth do just these things.

The Courier recently carried articles relating to the drive the people of Doylestown put on to raise $5000 to sponsor a playground. More recently Yardley civic groups were engaged in the same project. New Hope has a recreation center. With schools near closing time, what are the children of parents who both work going to do? I know in several cases the mother will leave her job for the summer 'till the reopening of schools in fall. Does industry realize they are losing manpower because there is no properly sponsored agency to take care of the youth. In some cases the parents will continue working and leave the children to their own devices.

We in Bristol have already experienced one drowning, in this case not a Bristol youth, but it could have been. We in Bristol have no crystal clear pool guarded by a well-trained lifeguard for our youth or adults.

I am a comparative newcomer to Bristol, but I know that there couple of more eggs, I feel hungry already." Christopher tumbled a generous extra tablespoonful of fegener into the pot. "I'm quite a cook in my own way," he volunteered.

"Good." She fished into her purse and drew out a checkbook and a fountain pen. "If you're such a cook in your own way, can you finish scrambling those eggs?"

Christopher busied himself at the stove and Ann, seated at the kitchen table, began counting out some mental arithmetic on her fingers. "How much is twenty-two-thirds of a hundred and ten?" she queried, when her eight fingers and two thumbs had failed her.

"Eighty dollars and sixty-seven cents," he replied after a few seconds of mental arithmetic. "Do you like Worcestershire sauce in the eggs?"

Ann nodded her whole-hearted approval. "And anchovies," she added. "He was enchanted. 'Have we anchovies?'"

"Nope. Nor Worcestershire either."

She wondered about this Mr. Christopher Wain. The small pieces of the jig-saw personality didn't fit, and didn't make a clear picture. He raised dogs and didn't look as if he was very successful at it; he liked Worcestershire in an egg; he knew how to figure like an adding machine, and he wore crepe-soled shoes which she detested. Withal, however, he was charming. His voice was that of a gentleman, and his hands were really fine, with strong rounded nails and no signet ring. Paul Freund was a signet ring. Somehow it seemed a part of dog business.

She folded the check. "I'll be back in a minute."

"Let me take it over for you. He might want to argue the matter or be nasty."

"You tend to the eggs, and I'll take care of Mr. Tompkins," she replied grimly. "And I like my bacon crisp."

Christopher stirred the eggs in conflict. On the table beside him lay the open checkbook, and within him was consuming curiosity. Or was it curiosity? Part of his business in life was making sense out of people. Her generalship the night before in the Freund crisis was grotesquely at odds with the picture of a young woman violating ten traffic laws at one and the same time, and her mental arithmetic was in direct opposition to the clear thinking which enabled her to fire an ugly-tempered farmhand and take over his not inconsequential duties without batting an eye.

His indecision resolved into ignominious surrender. He moved to the table, and gave a smug grant at what he saw. Very obviously Miss Ann Rivers was a young woman who bogged down in the mysteries of a checkbook, for eighty dollars and sixty-seven cents subtracted from one hundred and eleven dollars and five cents did not leave forty dollars and forty-eight cents. Undoubtedly there would come a day when the bank would inform her that things were wrong to the extent of ten dollars and ten cents.

He felt like a very unpleasant person sticking his nose into other people's business, but as he couldn't feel any more unpleasant about it, he turned over the preceding stub and glanced at that, too. It wasn't a very difficult calculation. If she had her dates right, she had drawn twenty dollars to cash, sixteen days before. Not a very active account, he noted. The pictures made just a little too much sense to be ignored. He let his gaze run out across the lawns to the meadows which filed away in neatly fenced squares to the distant woods. This was a pretty big show for a girl without capital to swing, he decided soberly, and she was coming up against a wall which was too high a jump for her to take.

POST SONG WANTED

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—(ANS)—Budding WAAC song writers have been asked to submit manuscripts for a post song.

Here's How to Sow Seed In Hot, Dry Weather

A Narrow Board Used to Shade the Row After Sowing Will Speed Germination.

In sowing seeds in hot, dry weather, for late crops of short-harvest varieties, it is usually more difficult to obtain good germination than it is in the cool, moist weather of spring.

Special precautions should therefore be taken. Drills should be made deeper than in the spring, and the soil thoroughly soaked along them. Then sow the seed and do not cover them sufficiently to fill the drill entirely, but leaving a slight depression which will catch any moisture that may fall in dews or light rains.

If, in addition, the row can be covered with narrow boards, to shade the soil from the sun and check evaporation, germination will usually result in normal time. Lacking such boards, the row may be covered with paper, or burlap. The board is preferable, and it can be lifted an inch or so above the ground, on cross pieces of wood, so that air circulates freely beneath it, if desired, to check any danger of damping off.

It is important to prevent the formation of a soil crust over seeds before they have germinated. This may result from a heavy rain, followed by baking in the hot sun. In clay soil it may prevent the seeds from emerging. Shading avoids this danger.

Whatever shading material is used, as soon as the seeds appear above the surface it must be lifted to allow full sunlight to the young plants. Until these have become well established, daily sprinkling with a hose will prove beneficial.

Except for such a specific purpose, however, the Victory garden should never be sprinkled. Dust should be encouraged to form over the soil; it will enable air to penetrate and rains to soak in.

Petroleum's Part In War Effort Given

bonks now using synthetic TNT, which type is better and costs only 17 per cent of what TNT cost at the time of World War I, according to Mr. Roemer.

Going into the subject of synthetic rubber it was mentioned that the Germans had a type called "Buna" in the late twenties. Esso was interested in this and conducted researches in such, abandoning them in 1935. Butyl rubber followed after a long lull, it being found superior to natural rubber for insulation, balloon cloth and gas masks. "Later Butadiene was discovered, it being referred to sometimes as Buna S, Styrene being added to Buna to secure Buna S." The club members were told that in 1935 there were 4,000 long tons of Buna S; in 1941, 12,000 long tons; in 1943, 250,000 tons or more; with expectation of a 50 per cent increase over 1943 by next year, and prospects of 30 million tires released through ration boards next year.

The speaker mentioned that patents purchased and held by Esso were turned over to the United States Government for the duration of the war, but later the period was made for the duration of the patents. "Although Buna S costs more there is reasonable hope that it will cost less. Butyl costs less than natural rubber, but it has inferior wearing qualities for tires," it was pointed out. The advantages of Buna S for self-sealing tanks on aircraft was mentioned, the Japanese having no self-sealing tanks. Such spots were mentioned as being most vulnerable to enemy fire, thus the Allies have a good advantage there.

S. Penn Salmon presided; two guests present being Fred Grapp, of Croydon; and A. Louis Trean, Philadelphia. The meeting next week will be at the property of Creighton Vandegrift.

OUR VICTORY GARDEN

"Man With Hoe" is "Man Behind The Gun"

By Jane Cochran
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, June 10.—(INS)—Beans, Boston baked, green, Navy style, or any way you fancy them have long been a standby in traditional American menus.

Beans will be a standby in your Victory Garden, too. The beans you plant and cultivate will produce many a meal for your table, and fill your Winter-canned goods shelf.

They're one of the most important vegetables in the Victory Garden, and one that will give you little trouble to raise. In addition to providing food for your garden, too, Beans are a member of the family of crops blessed with the ability to take nitrogen out of the air and return it to the soil. Bacteria contained in their root nodules accomplish this useful function in restoring one of the most necessary elements to plant growth.

Bush Beans Easier
In deciding to raise beans, you'll also have to decide what kind to raise. There are two kinds of snap beans—the bush type which grows only 16 to 20 inches tall, and the pole type, which grows several feet in height. There's no doubt but that the bush type is by far the easiest to care for—but they yield their entire crop in two or three pickings, and must be sown at intervals to provide a long production season. Pole beans, which must be staked, yield over a period of several weeks.

In both types, there is a choice of color. Both bush and pole types can be had in the green-podded or the yellow-podded or wax beans. There are stringless varieties in both groups and you'll save kitchen trouble if you plant the stringless ones.

Grow Along Fence
If stakes aren't available for the pole type beans, you can grow them along the back fence or other supporting trellis—providing, of course, that such a support is available.

In planting pole beans along a single trellis or fence, sow the seeds about six inches apart.

When you're using poles, plant the seeds in 3 by 3 inch hills with two seeds in each hill. Arrange four of these hills in a two or three foot square. Four poles are set, one in each hill, and tied together at the top, tepee style. Single hills with one pole also can be used.

Beans flourish only in warm weather, and there's no point in planting them out until the ground is warm and frost danger passed. Beans, on the average, don't do well in the full heat of a hot Summer, but Kentucky Wonder pole beans will bear through the hot season.

Plant In Rows
Bush beans are planted in rows. They should be planted 1½ inches to 2 inches deep, according to the type and condition of the soil. Plant from six to eight beans for each foot of the row's length. Under ordinary conditions, you can expect to harvest from a bushel to a bushel and a half of bean pods from each 100-foot row.

Keep your cultivation shallow when you're dealing with beans and only cultivate as much as necessary to control weeds. When weeds appear in the row, pull by hand to avoid uprooting the beans. You should also avoid working in the beans when they're wet—pick them after the dew has gone off.

It's hard for the new gardener to know just when to harvest his vegetables. The best time for beans is just as soon as a goodly number of pods have reached full growth and before the seeds have begun to swell. Pick the well developed ones and let the others grow for the next picking.

Kentucky Wonders have a noticeable string when full grown, but they're of tender quality when the pod is half size.

Good for Canning
Don't worry if you've planted more beans than your family can possibly consume this Summer. They're one of the most important vegetables for canning and one of the easiest to freeze in food lockers. Beans will produce longer if they are picked clean so that the seeds do not mature, and they're delicious in the half mature stage, although the yield isn't as great.

METHOD OF CANNING DEPENDS ON WHAT IS TO BE CANNED

With a big home canning program for this year, homemakers are asking "Is it a pressure cooker or a boiling water bath for processing?"

Both methods are correct but each has its definite use according to what is being canned. Foods for canning are considered in two groups depending on the amount of acid they contain. Fruits, tomatoes, and pickled foods, such as beets, are classified as acid foods while all other vegetables, meats, and poultry are nonacid foods.

A pressure cooker is the recommended method for processing nonacid foods. At 19 pounds pressure it is possible to obtain a temperature of 249 degrees which is high enough to kill bacteria readily in nonacid vegetables. Meat and poultry need a temperature of 250 degrees which can be obtained by applying 15 pounds pressure. Using the pressure cooker also reduces the processing time one-half to two-thirds of that required in the boiling water bath. Any standard cooker will be satisfactory, but be sure to follow the directions that come with the cooker.

If a pressure cooker is not available, a boiling-water bath may be used for nonacid vegetables, but the following rules must be carefully observed:

1. Can only fresh good quality products.
2. Precook all vegetables.
3. Fill and process not more than 6 to 8 jars at one time.
4. Keep the water boiling the entire time.
5. Remove the jars from the water bath as soon as the processing period is over.
6. Cool jars in a cool place.
7. Boil contents of jars 10 minutes before tasting.

Many homemakers in Pennsylvania have followed these rules carefully and have been successful in using a boiling water bath for canning when a pressure cooker was not available.

The boiling water bath is satisfactory for acid vegetables and fruits. Because of their acid content, they do not need to be processed at a temperature higher than boiling water. Any kettle or pail that will hold a rack and is deep enough for the water to cover the jars by at least one inch can be used. Start counting the time when the water begins to boil and keep the water boiling the entire processing period. Always remove jars from the water bath as soon as the processing time ends.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor

We thank thee, O God, for the promise of Jesus Christ that He has overcome the world. In this day when many are struggling in constant battle, when it seems that so much that is good is being destroyed, and so much that is desired is being taken away, it would seem that there is no power which can overcome the evil of the world. But we praise thee, O God, that there is such a power, and that it is manifest in the victory of Jesus Christ. May He be enthroned in the hearts and lives of men; may His kingdom be established; may His will be done so that righteousness and peace will once more abide on the face of the earth. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

TWO PER PERSON!
I'm speaking of umbrellas. Keep one at the office or factory and one on tap at home. This is the rule of the well-groomed, and also of the woman on a clothes budget. Two umbrellas save cleaning and pre-tax bills and hopeless shrinking of wet garments. Umbrellas have been up in price lately, but Snellenburg Week (from now until June 12th) gives you a grand opportunity to get one or more good 16-rib elegance umbrellas for $3.85 each, temporarily reduced from $4.95. Plains and novelty patterns. Nice tips and strong, smart handles, with safety wristlets. (Umbrella Dept., 1st fl.)

LAST CALL for precious shoe stamps No. 17 is now being made. This is especially important to mothers of growing boys and girls. The sponsors of Snellenburg Week are celebrating by offering patrons girls' $3.95 Sport-Service Oxfords at $2.45, and boys' $3.85 sturdy Oxfords at the same price, namely, $3.45. Opportunity lasting only until June 12th inclusive. Girls and young women can wear the girls' Oxfords. Sizes 4 1/2 to 9. Moccasin-toe and Wales-ite Blucher models included, also elk-tanned cowhide loafers. Leather welted and stitched soles. The Oxfords also have welted and stitched soles. Some moccasin styles with rubber soles included. In sizes 1 to 6. (Shoe Dept., 1st fl.)

PRIORITIES BE DENIED! For we can now buy real inlaid linoleum, not only with a clear conscience but at a reduction! For the space of Snellenburg Week (which is in progress now and until June 12th), $1.95 per square yard linoleum can be purchased at $1.69 instead. It is in the form of large remnant pieces in tile and marble effects. Great for kitchens, bathrooms, and even larger rooms. Take or send your measurements. (Linoleum Dept., 4th fl.)

ENSEMBLE HAND-BAGS for summer are at their economical best in the Snellenburg Week sale. The group is entirely made up of fabric and straw purses, home-spun, novelty cottons, etc. The colorful woven straws are embroidered in raffia—a style treat from the Bahamas. The usual price of $1.85 is low, but during the shop's "name week" (from now until June 12th) the bags are priced as low as $1.65. Many of these purses include more than one color, so that one purse is often suitable for carrying with several costumes. (Handbag Dept., 1st fl.)

THEY LOVE SPORT COATS! Sports coats that are just right are considered little less than heavenly raiment by the young male set wearing sizes 14 to 22. These are even hailed enthusiastically by some of the dads ("Fathers' Day is coming!"). The Snellenburg Week price on regular $19.95 to $13.45 Sports Coats is now $9.95 from now until June 12th. Glen plaid and snappy checks, in a swank single-breasted model that, as the store stylist says, "makes him hold his shoulders back to show the splendid fit." Treat him with one or even two. (Students' Clothing, 2nd fl.)

HURRY, HURRY, ye housewives! Genuine linen kitchen toweling at only 29c a yard can be had in the Towel Dept. (2nd fl.) of the Snellenburg Store. This is a celebration item, from now until June 12th inclusive. There are also complete linen dish towels at 29c each. Both come in red, blue or green striping. The separate towels even come in smart striped bows!

YOUR SOAP QUOTA is important. So don't miss the buying of from one to three dozen cakes of the famous Snellenburg Hardwater Soap while you can get it at the Snellenburg Week (until June 12th inclusive) reduced price, of only 66c for the dozen-cake box, or $1.98 for the 3-dozen-cake box. Ideal for the skin, as it contains cold cream and makes a good lather. Choice of white or assorted colors. At our house my particular bathroom color is yellow throughout—and no snitching! 1st fl. (Toiletries Dept.)

SIMPLEST SUITS are those made of checked or striped cottons in cool colors. They have a neat charm on the young girl, or even on a woman, averse to house-dress types of practical workaday garments. Besides, these remarkable ones I have found for you are smart enough for the street. You won't believe the price—$2.75! Of course this is a special price for the celebration of Snellenburg Week. The jackets have notched collars, pockets, good buttons, gored skirts. A model with set in belt comes in sizes 12 to 20. One with form-fitting jacket comes in sizes 14 to 20. Daytime Dress Dept., 2nd fl.

P.S. Shop personally—this friendly store is located at 11th and Market Sts. Order by mail, or phone free (5c, 10c, and 15c out-of-town calls only)! Pennsylvanians call ENTERPRISE 10160. New Jersey "Budgeteers" call WX1150. Faithfully, FAITH.

TED WILLIAMS' 4-YEAR RECORD IS OUTSTANDING

Cobb, Hornsby or Speaker Have Nothing On Williams

GREATEST OF ALL TIME

Williams Yet Must Show He Can Perform Over Long Distance Route

Can Ted Williams "go the route" as one of baseball's all-time great hitters?

The answer to that question lies in The Kid's early return to the game and his picking up of his great four-year batting record where he left off last winter to become a Naval Aviation cadet in Uncle Sam's league. For that four-season record definitely ranks him with the greatest batsmen of all-time on a comparative period checkup—a survey showing that in his first four years in the majors he bettered the first full four-year records of such greats as Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Rogers Hornsby, all members of the game's Hall of Fame.

The lanky outfield star of the Boston Red Sox left the American league with a four-season plate mark of .356, a mark for four years exceeded only by Wee Willie Keeler, Shoeless Joe Jackson and Al Simmons.

Keeler, in his first four full seasons, averaged an incredible .396 but wound up with a lifetime average of .345. Jackson's four-year average was .381, with a lifetime duplication of Williams' average, .356. Simmons, one of the greatest sluggers the American League ever knew and still in the major league picture as an outfielder for Boston's Red Sox, holds a lifetime average of .336 but in his first four seasons slammed the ball at a remarkable .357 clip.

At the same stage of their diamond careers, Cobb had a four-year mark of .343, with Speaker's four-season average being .326 and Hornsby's being only .311. All three of those great stars went on to Hall of Fame recognition in their later years and Ted still has to prove he can hold his hot pace over the long haul. But on those first four seasons he certainly got away to a great start since leaving Minneapolis back in 1928.

The Kid, in his first season in the big time, hit .327 for Boston, leading the circuit in runs batted in with 145. In 1940 he batted .344, then followed with his great .406 mark in 1941, setting the pace in homers. Last season he preceded his departure to the armed forces with all-around honors, batting .356 to take the league hitting title second straight season, and leading the parade in homers, runs batted in, runs scored and total bases. In 1941 when he hit his .406, Ted was 22, making the youngest modern ever to slam the ball above the .350 mark. Cobb was 24 when he first reached the .400 circle. Jackson was 23, Cap Lajoie was 25, Hornsby was 26, George Sisler was 27, Harry Heilmann was 29 and Bill Terry, 31.

Keeler made one of the fastest hitting stars baseball ever knew.

WAR WORKERS ROUGH HANDS

HERE IS A BETTER WAY TO TREAT THEM. Factory work is hard on the hands, but a nightly application of this new, pleasant, greaseless, vanishing, white ointment works wonders while you sleep. Far better than a lotion as it is antiseptic, goes farther and does not spill if upset. Not just a skin softener but a healing, pain relieving ointment. Designed especially for the boys in the armed services this greaseless ointment is offered the folks back home. The name is VICTORY OINTMENT. Clip this ad to remind you to get a jar today.

batting .367, .394, .392, and .432 in his first four seasons. But he slumped, comparatively, from then on to wind up with a lifetime .345, dropping to .234 in 1907.

Simmons, who gave up coaching with Philadelphia to help out Boston's outfielder shortage, had his great start with the Athletics, 1924 through 1927. Best of those four years was 1927, when "Bucket Foot Al" hammered the ball at a .392 pace. His lifetime average through 1941 was .336.

Cobb, the great "Georgia Peach," had his best four-season mark in 1909, when his bat boomed out a .377 for the Tigers. Jackson must have felt very discouraged by Cobb's ability to bang the apple. In his first full season in the majors, Joe hit .408 in 1911—but that was the season that Cobb slammed out a .420! In 1912, Jackson came back with .395, only to have Cobb hit .410. Then Joe hit .372, with Cobb topping that with .390! Williams still has to prove he can perform over the distance route, for the great hitters did their stuff over periods of from 15 to 24 years. But the figures show that Ted is away to a great start—and millions of fans look hopefully for the war's end and a glimpse once again of The Kid taking "his out."

Here are the four-year and lifetime averages of standout hitters:

Name	Four-year	Lifetime
Willie Keeler	.396	.345
Al Simmons	.357	.336
Ted Williams	.356	.356

Zoot Suit Warfare Continues

Los Angeles—Efforts of law enforcement agencies to bring about peace in the Los Angeles zoot suit warfare took the spotlight today following the sixth straight night of fighting between "drape-shape" hoodlums and servicemen.

Fighting broke out anew on several suburban "fronts" late last night, although zoot-suiters within the city limits proper apparently heeded Mayor Fletcher Bowron's warning of "two-listed" action to eliminate the "civil war."

Civil and military police quelled an uprising in the Watts district after 150 service men wildly battled a force of some 125 zooted youths and juveniles. Fighting lasted more than an hour. The service men, mostly sailors and marines, braved stone barrages to rip trousers off many of their assailants.

A number of participants were rounded up and held for questioning. Navy officials indicated 25 sailors would face military charges "to set an example."
